Alasdair Suibhne

Alasdair Suibhne (born 740) is the 7th Earl of Douglas and head of House Suibhne. He is a mature lord of 34 years who has governed his lands since the age of 14.

Biography

Birth: 740 at Caer Suibhne.

Accession: Succeeded the 6th Earl in 754 following the 6th Earl's death in the Queen's War war along with several other senior Suibhnes, including Alasdair's father, elder brother and great uncle. H

Lineage: Great-great-grandson of the legendary Amma Suibhne.

Role: A senior noble and host of the King's Peace negotiations in 774.

Character & Standing

Alasdair is known for upholding the strict rules of hospitality associated with his house. He is a Unicorn Rider of the second generation, possessing the “fairy blood” necessary to bond with the creatures. Though officially a loyal subject, he is currently involved in a discreet effort to spread evidence of the King's “murders” at Caer Suibhne to ensure justice is served for the breach of his home's sanctity.

Family

He is currently married to Laura Caoimhe Gilruary (born in 743 in Dalmuir). She and Alasdair were married in 755 in Dalmuir by order of the Regency Council who were keen that there would be early heirs to all of the noble house in the wake of the civil war. They have ten children
